Delphinium

"QUEEN OF ALL BLUE FLOWERS"

"HINTS FOR FORCING"

We ship Delphinium for forcing as soon as the leaves have ripened and the plants have passed through a few degrees of frost. You pot them carefully upon arrival and place them in a cold frame; do not expose the plants to too much light. They should be brought into gentle heat along in January and should not at any time be given a high temperature; about 40 deg. to 50 deg. at night will be enough. More failures with these plants are due to too much heat than anything else, the foliage being pushed ahead of the flower.

Remember that Perennials cost you nothing after they are once planted, and that they give you an abundance of cut flowers every year. Have you ever had anything in your Greenhouse that would yield a crop from year to year without having to resow, repropagate, rebuy and to repot several times in one year? Make the Perennials your Supply House and save money. Watch the recommendation for the planting of Perennials in the trade-papers.

Some PERENNIALS and BIENNIALS

Such as mentioned below, if planted in the Fall

Need Protection During the Winter Months

ANEMONES.

BUDDLEYA (Butterfly Bush or Summerlilac)

These are apt to freeze unless covered with straw or leaves.

CAMPANULA (a biennial),

DIGITALIS (a biennial)

GEUM.

To protect these, throw branches on the rows and on top of these straw. If the covering on Campanula and Digitalis becomes packed in the spring, they will rot, therefore be sure there are plenty of branches under the straw to insure plenty of ventilation.

HOLLYHOCKS,

STOKESIA.

They must have "dry feet", so plant them on a spot where there is plenty of drainage.

CHRYSANTHEMUM. If received in the fall, they should be "heeled in" in sand and covered up with straw and planted out in the spring.

TRITOMA. Must be kept inside in sand.

REMEMBER. THE ABOVE ITEMS, planted in the spring, DO NOT need protection during the following winter, as they have established their roots thoroly during the year.

The advantage of planting Anemones, Buddleya, Campanula Digitalis, Geum, Hollyhocks and Stokesia, in the fall is, that they are practically a year ahead and of course the crop of blooms will be accordingly.

WELLER'S GLADIOLI

Disappointed with Your Indoor Gladioli?

What May Be the Reason?

Planted too shallow?
 Planted too close?
 Planted in raised bench with much underneath heat?
 Too high a temperature?
 Too much water? or not enough?
OR USED THE WRONG BULBS?

DO YOU THINK HOLLAND BULBS COULD BE FORCED IF THE HOLLAND BULBGROWERS SHIPPED THEIR FLOWERS? ? ? ?

WOULD YOU BUY TULIP BULBS WITHOUT KNOWING WHERE THEY WERE GROWN AND WHETHER THEY WERE GROWN FOR THE PURPOSE OF FORCING? YOU WOULD NOT!

Gladioli can be forced to perfection, but as with all other stock it takes careful study of the particular requirements of the bulbs.

A crop of Gladioli is as profitable or more so than any other indoor crop; THEREFORE give them a separate bench or part of it and let them receive the same care and attention you give your other stock.

For successful forcing of Gladioli it is vital not to use "picked up" or "bargain" lots, the chance is too great that they come blind. For forcing, should be used a bulb containing absolute "FORCING QUALITY", thru its variety, strength and method under which it is grown. Most florists prefer Michigan-grown stock; sand-grown bulbs are better adapted for forcing. By "topping" our flowers we leave all the "pep" in the bulbs, giving them a "PLUS QUALITY", which makes our stock so suitable for forcing.

"Hints for Forcing"

Plant the bulbs 2 inches deep, 4 inches apart each way, if possible in ground benches; raised benches are all right, provided there is not too much underneath heat.

Be careful with manure; water and sunlight are more important than manure.

Grow them under carnation temperature.

Plant from January 15 to February 1st. Bulbs planted before Jan. 15th show more blind stalks than those planted later.

It's not the largest bulb that forces best; by all means forcing stock should be fat and plump, 1½ in., (no use forcing flat bulbs).

Gladioli in Coldframe

To produce flowers about two weeks ahead of flowers from field-grown bulbs, planting should be made the middle of March or to suit climatic conditions. The frames should be ready then and the sash removed not before danger from frost is over. The bulbs should be planted 4 to 5 inches apart and an extra supply of plantfood must be provided. Diluted liquid sheep manure twice a week after the plants have made some growth is advisable, also half a handful of nitrate of soda to a gallon of water is good.

As for forcing in greenhouse, the early varieties are also most advisable for this purpose.

BABY RAMBLER ROSES FOR FORCING

It may seem unusual that we should grow only one variety while there are so many others. The reason however is sound and the result of experience. The Orleans Rose is considered the very best variety of all forcing kind by the foremost forcers of Baby Rambler Roses in this country. It grows good, is free from mildew, blooms evenly and much easier than any other variety and its color is the most striking of all. There is less percentage of culls, it finds a more ready sale and brings a higher price.
